EDT SOCIAL MEDIA STRATEGY

Premium Design × Tech × Better Living

Building Cultural Relevance, Trust & Narrative Ecosystems

Crafted by: Pallavi Balmiki

STRATEGY OVERVIEW

5 Original Content Buckets

Beyond generic categories—building trust, aspiration & cultural relevance

5 Creator Collaborations

Taste-aligned partnerships across Design, Food, Fitness, Parenting & Culture

3 Founder Content Themes

Authentic, values-led narratives positioning EDT as category-defining

PART 1

CONTENT BUCKETS

Instagram & LinkedIn

BUCKET 1: MATERIAL TRUTHS

STRATEGIC INTENT

Build credibility and differentiation by demystifying what goes into the product, positioning EDT as radically transparent in an industry that hides behind marketing speak.

WHAT IT REPRESENTS

The anti-jargon manifesto. Show the molecular reality: why borosilicate glass beats plastic-coated metal, what thermal conductivity means for food, how PureGlass™ is stress-tested.

BEST FORMATS

Reels (15-30s) / Carousel

EXECUTION STYLE

Visual: Clean macro cinematography. Extreme close-ups. Light play through glass.
Hook:
"Most air fryers hide this. We don't."
Tone:
Confident but not arrogant.
"We obsessed over this so you don't have to."

EXAMPLE POST

Split-screen Reel: Left = generic air fryer basket with micro-scratches.
Right = LUMA glass bowl with light refraction.
Text: "Your food doesn't touch chemicals. It touches 220°C borosilicate glass.
Zero coating degradation. #EverydayExtraordinary"

BUCKET 2: THE INVISIBLE UPGRADE

STRATEGIC INTENT

Shift from "better air fryer" to "changes how you think about your kitchen“ positioning EDT as a cultural shift, not just a purchase.

WHAT IT REPRESENTS

Good design dissolves friction you didn't know you had.
It's about removing mental load, visual clutter, decision fatigue.
Celebrate the ripple effects: confidence, silence, simplicity.

BEST FORMATS

- Story series with polls
- Text-forward founder posts

EXAMPLE POST (LinkedIn)

"The 56 dB decision. We debated for weeks: industry-standard 70 dB motor (cheaper) or custom 56 dB system (expensive, delayed launch). We chose 56 dB. Why? Because at 56 dB, you forget it's running. You take calls. Kids nap. That's the upgrade. Not specs. Invisibility."

BUCKET 3: RITUAL, NOT RECIPE

STRATEGIC INTENT

Elevate cooking from task to ritual, positioning LUMA as the object that anchors a modern, intentional home practice.

WHAT IT REPRESENTS

"Slow living" meets weeknight reality. Not elaborate recipes, the feeling of cooking when the tool is beautiful. LUMA users don't just cook, they cultivate.
Even if it's frozen samosas.

EXECUTION STYLE

Visual: Warm, human, analog. Natural light. Film grain texture.
Hook:
Timestamps as anchors. "6:47 PM. The glass bowl ritual."
Tone:
Quiet aspiration. Molly Baz meets Kinfolk magazine.

BEST FORMAT

Carousel (5-7 slides) / Cinematic Reel

EXAMPLE POST

Carousel: Slide 1 shows hands placing marinated paneer in LUMA glass bowl, soft evening light.
Text: "6:47 PM. The glass bowl ritual.
" Next slides: setting temp, watching it cook through glass (golden-hour glow), plating on ceramic, final shot: empty LUMA reflecting kitchen light.
"The kind of Tuesday that feels like Sunday."

BUCKET 4: DESIGNED FOR INDIA, BUILT FOR THE WORLD

STRATEGIC INTENT

Position EDT as India's answer to Apple, Dyson, Nothing—a brand that exports taste, not just products. National pride meets global ambition.

WHAT IT REPRESENTS

Indian founders building world-class products FROM India. LUMA has OpenAI & Apple advisors. The design works in SoHo or Bandra. "Made in India" = design excellence.

BEST FORMATS

- Long-form thought leadership
- Reel (global design contexts)

EXAMPLE POST (Instagram Reel)

LUMA in global design contexts, Scandinavian kitchen, Tokyo apartment, Brooklyn brownstone.
Same product, different worlds.
Text overlay: "Bandra to Brooklyn.One design language.
" Shows the product transcends its origin story.
Aspiration layered with national pride.

BUCKET 5: THE UNBOXING FEELING (BUT MAKE IT LAST)

STRATEGIC INTENT

Extend the purchase high beyond day one, turning ownership into ongoing discovery.
Build trust through time, not hype. Focus on retention and referrals.

WHAT IT REPRESENTS

The opposite of influencer unboxing. Real test = week 3, month 6, year 2. User-generated content (curated), long-term testimonials, micro-discoveries when product becomes part of life.

BEST FORMATS

- Stories → Saved Highlight "Real Use"
- Carousel (UGC compilation)

EXAMPLE POST
"Things we didn't expect LUMA owners to do." Carousel: Slide 1 = Using glass bowl as serving dish (air fryer to table).
Slide 2 = Storing dry ingredients in it.
Slide 3 = Impromptu salad spinner.
User photos, tagged sources. Hook: "We designed it as an air fryer. Our users had other ideas."

PART 2

CREATOR STRATEGY

Taste Alignment Over Follower Count

CREATOR 1: RUCHIRA HOON

FOOD

@ruchirahoon

WHY THEY FIT EDT

Chef Patron, Food Consultant, Food Writer & Stylist. Former MasterChef India contestant.
Her cooking philosophy: beautiful, thoughtful food with seasonal produce.
LUMA's glass visibility + dual-bowl efficiency aligns with her "conscious eating" approach and aesthetic food storytelling.

COLLABORATION IDEA

"The Conscious Kitchen Series" Ruchira develops 5 seasonal recipes showcasing LUMA's glass bowl advantage: layered seasonal vegetables (watch colors change), artisanal bakes with visible rise, cocktail-paired appetizers.
Shot in her signature food styling aesthetic. Deliverable: 5 Reels + 1 Recipe Carousel.

EXPECTED IMPACT

- Trust: 29K+ food-obsessed audience values her chef credentials + MasterChef pedigree
- Positioning:
LUMA as tool for conscious, beautiful cooking, not just convenience
- Content Library:
Professionally styled recipe content for ongoing brand use

CREATOR 2: ARCHIT AGARWAL

@architlost

FOOD

WHY THEY FIT EDT

Food photographer who showcases recipes through aesthetic, drool-worthy visuals with simple explanations. Minimalist approach and focus on elevated home cooking aligns with EDT's "ritual, not recipe" philosophy.
Not viral hacks, considered, beautiful cooking.

COLLABORATION IDEA

"The Glass Bowl Series" – 5 recipes showcasing LUMA's transparent cooking advantage: layered biryanis (watch rice steam), caramelized vegetables (color = timer), slow-roasted proteins (visible Maillard reaction).
Shot in signature aesthetic style. Deliverable: 5 Reels + 1 Carousel guide.

EXPECTED IMPACT

- Reach: Audience appreciates cooking as craft, perfect EDT alignment
- Trust: Recipe credibility from food photographer = LUMA for aesthetically minded cooks
- Content Library:

Beautifully shot, brand-aligned recipe content for ongoing use

CREATOR 3: RISHABH TELANG

@fitwithrishabh

FITNESS

WHY THEY FIT EDT

Bangalore strength coach focused on "macro-friendly Indian cooking.
" LUMA's 360° visibility + NutriRetain™ technology (less oil) maps to his "eat more, eat better" philosophy.
Kitchen efficiency obsessed, dual bowls = batch cooking = gym time saved.

COLLABORATION IDEA

"48-Hour Meal Prep in LUMA" Sunday routine: chicken, sweet potato, roasted veggies, paneer, all rotated through dual bowls across 3 hours.
Breaks down macros, timing, why glass visibility helps nail doneness.
Deliverable: 1 long-form Reel (60-90 sec) + Instagram Guide.

EXPECTED IMPACT

- Positioning: LUMA as fitness-enabling tool, not just cooking gadget
- Community:

80K+ high-intent buyers who spend on supplements, gear, tools

- Trust:

Performance credentials from someone who measures results

CREATOR 4: MILI JHAVERI

@biologicalmom

PARENTING

WHY THEY FIT EDT

Mumbai mom influencer sharing raw, unfiltered parenting experiences with two children. Emphasizes honest, relatable motherhood over perfection, aligns with EDT's "everyday extraordinary." Founder Naiyya's BabyChakra legacy creates natural alignment.

COLLABORATION IDEA

"The Real Week: Feeding Kids with LUMA" 7 days of actual toddler meals (not staged): nuggets, fries, mini pizzas, emergency frozen samosas.
Honest about what kids ate vs. rejected. Shows dual-bowl hack: cook kid + adult food simultaneously.
Deliverable: 7-day Story series + honest Carousel.

EXPECTED IMPACT

- Trust: 150K+ audience values her honest take on parenting chaos
- Reach:
Parents are high-shareability demo, content forwarded to partners, in-laws, groups
- Positioning:
LUMA as sanity-saver for "trying-to-feed-healthy-but-barely-surviving" parents

CREATOR 5: NISHANT CHOKSI

@nishantchoksi

CULTURE

WHY THEY FIT EDT

UK-based illustrator (Indian origin) featured in The New Yorker, NYT, Wired. Witty, minimal, culturally observant style. EDT's anime packaging + "everyday extraordinary" is ripe for his visual commentary. Wildcard collaboration, cultural resonance, not transactional.

COLLABORATION IDEA

"The New Indian Kitchen" Limited-edition illustration series reimagining LUMA in surreal contexts: 1970s Bombay kitchen, Mars colony 2075, family heirloom being passed down.
Published as art prints (gifted to first 100 buyers) + Instagram Carousel. Signature on packaging inserts.

EXPECTED IMPACT

- Cultural Relevance: EDT as patron of creative talent, not just brand, but cultural participant
- Differentiation:
No Indian appliance brand commissions original art, collector-grade brand building
- Community:
8K+ design-culture audience sees EDT as one of them, not mass brand

PART 3

FOUNDER CONTENT

Authentic, Values-Led, Category-Defining

BUCKET 1: THE DECADE PERSPECTIVE

NARRATIVE ANGLE

Naiyya as pattern-recognizer, built across parenting (BabyChakra), beauty (Good Glamm), now home tech (EDT). Not trend-jumping; a thesis on modern Indian consumers evolving across life stages. She's the throughline.

CONTENT THEMES

- What BabyChakra taught about trust (why it matters for LUMA)
- 3 consumer shifts in 10 years: transparency, toxin-awareness, taste
- Why hardware after software: tactile trust in digital-first world

PLATFORM ADAPTATION

Long-form post (1,500-2,000 chars)

Carousel (5 slides, more visual)

WHY IT WORKS

✓ Trust: Decade-long journey = not a grifter
✓ Authority:
Cross-category pattern recognition
✓ Relatability:
Vulnerability + conviction = human
✓ Brand Depth:
Ladders to "different, not better"

EXAMPLE (LinkedIn)
"In 2015, parents asked: 'Help me not poison my baby.' In 2025, home cooks asked: 'Help me not poison my family.'
Different category. Same fear. In 2015, Indian brands didn't exist to answer parenting fears.
In 2025, they can answer it in home appliances, if we choose to. That's why LUMA is glass, not plastic."

BUCKET 2: THE UNFILTERED BUILD

NARRATIVE ANGLE

Naiyya as "in-the-trenches" CEO, unglamorous, non-obvious decisions that define category-creating companies. Not founder as guru. Founder as co-conspirator.

CONTENT THEMES

- Why we delayed LUMA's launch by 8 weeks (and why I'd do it again)
- The component we almost cut to hit price point (why we didn't)
- What our first 1000 customers told us (good, weird, concerning)

PLATFORM ADAPTATION

Reels (15-30s) / Real-time Stories

Behind-the-scenes with images

WHY IT WORKS

✓ Trust: Transparency = not hiding hard parts
✓ Authority:
Decision process = operational competence
✓ Relatability:
"Delayed launch" = every founder's nightmare
✓ Brand Depth:
Values-led, not margin-optimized

EXAMPLE (Instagram Reel)
Naiyya in EDT office, holding LUMA motor: "This motor cost us ₹1,847 more per unit than industry standard. Our investors asked: 'Can you cut it?' I asked: 'Can we sell a product I wouldn't use?' 56 dB vs. 70 dB isn't a spec. It's a philosophy. Ship quiet or ship late.
We shipped late." [15 seconds. No music. Just honesty.]

BUCKET 3: THE ADVISOR CONVERSATIONS

NARRATIVE ANGLE

Naiyya as curator of excellence—leveraging world-class advisory board (OpenAI, Apple, Rebag, Servify, Dixon) not as name-drops, but as intellectual sparring partners. Founder as student.

CONTENT THEMES

- What Caitlin Kalinowski (OpenAI/ex-Apple) taught about hardware iteration
- Arun Seth on why Indian hardware can win globally (not cost)
- Elizabeth Layne's advice on brand-building beyond geography

PLATFORM ADAPTATION

Text-forward + single image. Tag advisor.

Carousel (3-5 slides with advisor intro)

WHY IT WORKS

✓ Trust: Advisor validation = world-class product
✓ Authority:
Intellectual humility + application = depth
✓ Positioning:
Building for decades, not quarters
✓ Network Effect:
Advisors reshare → reach into tech/design/VC

EXAMPLE (LinkedIn)

"Last week, I asked Caitlin Kalinowski (OpenAI, ex-Apple AR/VR): 'What's most underrated in hardware design?' Her answer: 'The recovery arc.' Not how it works when new—how it recovers when dropped, scratched, misused. We designed LUMA's dual-bowl for adaptation. Glass bowls are modular. One breaks, you replace it, not the whole unit."

THE STRATEGY POSITIONS EDT

NOT AS AN APPLIANCE BRAND,

BUT AS A CULTURAL MOVEMENT

The content doesn't sell LUMA.

It makes you wonder how you cooked without it.

Crafted by: Pallavi Balmiki