NIJAAT

Screenplay

Crafted by – Pallavi Balmiki

Once upon a time in a small town, there lived a brave young woman named Meera. She had endured unimaginable hardships in her life, having survived a traumatic incident. Determined and resilient, Meera fought for justice in the court of law, where she won her case.

The news of Meera's victory spread throughout the town, and it was a moment of celebration for everyone. Meera's family and friends felt relieved that justice had been served, and they rejoiced in her triumph. The town applauded her strength and courage, rallying behind her as a symbol of hope and resilience.

However, despite the victory, Meera carried scars that ran deep within her soul. Nightmares haunted her sleep, and anxiety attacks left her trembling and gasping for air. The fear of men became an ever-present, suffocating presence in her life.

Walking the streets of her own town became a daily battle for Meera. The sight of any man, even those passing by innocently, triggered her trauma, causing her to scream and shout in terror. Strangers would sometimes misunderstand her outbursts, recoiling in fear themselves, which only served to exacerbate Meera's debilitating anxiety.

- Parth, Meera's childhood friend, stood by her side like a pillar of support. He understood the depth of her pain and was determined to help her reclaim her life. Parth encouraged Meera to seek professional help, believing that therapy could provide her with the tools to heal and overcome her crippling fear.

Meera's family, too, played a crucial role in her recovery. They embraced her vulnerability and showered her with love and understanding. Their collective strength served as a constant reminder that she was not alone in this journey.

Together, Meera, Parth, and her family created a safe haven, free from judgment and any expectations. Slowly but surely, Meera began to reclaim her life. She gathered the courage to face her fear head-on, gradually exposing herself to situations that once triggered her anxiety.

Parth accompanied Meera every step of the way, providing a sense of security whenever she needed it. He taught her how to communicate her fears and anxieties openly so that others could understand and support her. Meera's strength grew with each small victory, and her faith in humanity slowly started to replenish.

Months turned into years, and Meera's healing journey continued. She realized that not all men posed a threat to her safety and well-being.

Ashok Desai: itni kathinaiyo ke baad akhir kaar hum ye case jeet hi gaye

Father: apki hi badaulat hum jeet paaye ,hume ap par poora bharausa tha

Ashok desai: Arrey humne toh apna farz nibhaaya , baaki Meera beta tumhari himmat ki main sarahna karta hoon , I can understand the situation you’re going through but you stood strong and I’m proud of you for that.

BG narration while showing everyone laughing smiling and timely focus on Meera

Haa hum case jeet gaye , wo gunehgaar salakhon ke peeche hai par kya mujhe sahi maayne mein NIJAAT mili hai ?

Scene 2: (need suspenseful bg music)

Meera's room

Meera is returning home from the office for which she has to cross a dark street .

At first she hesitates but then starts walking, a moment after she hears footsteps following her , she abruptly turns to look but no one was there , she a bit afraid now her pace quickens , she's walking fast but suddenly someone covers her mouth with a cloth and it blacks out

She wakes up from the dream all sweaty and breathing heavy

Glances over the room to make sure she's safe and it was just a dream .

" haadsa hue itna samay ho gaya par uska khauf mujhe aj bhi satata hai , akhir kab khatam hoga ye sab " (with frustration)

And sits there while holding her head

Scene 3

Daytime, bustling streets, no ones at home Meera sitting on sofa holding ‘photo album’ gazing at it with dead expression, turning the pages. She hears a knock on the door and flinches, slowly rises from the sofa keeping the album on the table beside and approaches the door still not sure if she should open it*in head* (iss waqt kaun ho sakta hai , sab bahar gaye hai koi hai bhi nahi ghar mein , darwaza kholu ya naa kholu) . Suddenly a voice from the other side calls her name and her tensed muscles ease a bit as she hears a familiar voice but still unsure she asks ‘ parth ?? tum ho kya??’

He answers ‘ haa meera main hoon , parth . Office se seedha yahi chala aaya socha tumse haal chaal poochta chalu’ . ‘ ab khologi bhi yaa yahi khada rakhogi , bohot garmi hai yaar jaldi darwaza kholo’ .

She opens the door to reveal a tired looking guy she has known for her entire life.

‘ muh kholke batane nahi hota ki main hoon, ek pal ke liye darr gayi thi’

‘ ay take it easy meera , you’re safe now , koi kuch nahi kar raha , waise main tumhe kisi cheez ke liye manane aaya hoon’

She turns and gives him a confused look ‘ parth mujhe kahi nahi jana main ghar par hi thik hoon’

‘ arrey waah am I that predictable?’ and laughs

‘ achya jokes aside , there’s a get-together party aur apne college ke puraane friends aa rahe hai sab tumhe dekhke bohot khush honge’

‘ nahi mujhe kahi nahi jana , tumhe lagta hai uss haadse ke baad koi mujhe pehle ki tarah dekh paayega ? kya karungi main waha aake ,sab mujhe ajeeb nazron se dekhenge , baatein karenge iss se acha main ghar par hi thik hoon’

‘ meera tum galat soch rahi ho , koi aisa kuch nahi kahega jis se tumhe dukh pohche, in fact they have asked me toh especially bring you to the party , sab tujhse milna chahte hai’

‘ dekho tum ek galat cheez ki wajah se zindagi bhar ghar mein toh nahi baith sakti , kyu apne aap ko kaid kar Rakha hai tumne, niklo iss kaid se bahar ki haseen duniya tumhara intezaar kar rahi hai’

Meera khayal mein kho jaati hai , abhi parth ki awaz usse khayalo se bahar laati hai ‘ mujhe kuch nahi pata main tumhe thik 7 baje pick up karne aa jaunga, taiyaar rehna , chalo bye’

Parth nikalne lagta hai toh peeche se meera ke babuji aa rahe hote hai jo parth ko dekh kar khush ho jaate hai , ‘ arrey beta kaha chale ‘

‘ uncle ji abhi bohot der ho rahi hai main chalta hoon, ap meera ko taiyar rakhiyega’

He leaves the house and father turns to meera ‘ meera beta ye kya keh raha tha parth’

She tells everything and him why she doesn’t want to go but her father explains her that it is for her own good and that she shouldn’t lock herself in the house as it is not good for her mental health.

SCENE 4

It’s 9:30 on the clock , both sitting at marine drive sipping hot tea, as cool breeze hits their face.

Parth: ‘ dekha ? kaha tha na you’ll enjoy it there’

Meera: ‘ yes I did , I did enjoy , it really felt good like I’ve been teleported to the past where I’m enjoying the social gatherings , talking to people . it was good. Thank you parth , thank you so much ‘

Parth: dekh meera when you let the past haunt you it will consume you ab ye tujh par hai ki tujhe uss se ubhar kar nayi life jeeni hai ya fir uss hi andhere ateet mein rehkar apni aage ki zindagi bhi kharab karni hai , it’s YOU who will make the difference and you have us by your side.

holds her hand assuring her

Meera: I do realize it now and I assure you that I'll work on getting back to what I was before this happened , I wanna live my life to the fullest .

Parth: I'm already seeing the change meera , that's a good thing. Chalo ab late ho raha hai tumhe ghar par hona chahiye , uncle aunty fikr kar rahe honge .

*they both ride the bike and get going *

Sahi kaha parth ne , main puri zindagi iss khauf ke sath nahi jee sakti , mujhe ye darr peeche chhodkar nahi life ki shuruaat karni hi hogi close up shot while on bike , hairs flowing with breeze and her smiling with bg music

Scene 5

Parth : arrey yaar iss bike ko bhi abhi bigadna tha

Meera: koi baat nahi main chali jaungi , aa toh gaye hai hum

Parth: aise kaise chali jaogi , dekh nahi rahi kitni raat ho gayi hai

Meera: iss andhere ka saamna toh karna hai ab

Parth: meera I'll park it yahi kahi pe ruko

Meera: parth maine kaha na main chali jaungi

Parth: you sure?

She nods and starts to walk. At distance she can see a group of boys sitting on their vehicles chatting and laughing, she halts and for a moment gets scared but then she starts walking past them confidently with a wide smile on her face that now she has conquered her fear and CUT!!
